Spending up 7.8%

By limiting the townships' portion of the Anson, Hindon and Minden 1987 tax increase to 7.78 per cent, Finance Committee Chairman Verne Graham is trying to give taxpayers a bit of a break.

The overall hike, including county and education levies, has township residents paying out an additional 11 per cent on their tax bills this year.

At a special meeting on May 21, council approved the 1987 budget. The estimated municipal expenditures for the year total $3,279,960, for the first time surpassing the $3 million mark.

"I think that as far as the municipal portion is concerned, it's a fair budget," said Graham. However, with a nine per cent increase on the board of education's share of the taxes and a 34.6 per cent hike from the county, he said there was no way to avoid a large overall increase.

"I feel bad about the large increase, the majority of which we have no control over," he said. The township accounts for only 28 per cent of the local taxation, while the board of education is responsible for 61.2 per cent and the county's share is 10.8 per cent.

By limiting the municipal levy to a 7.8 per cent rise, Graham says the township has not been able to build its reserve funds to the extent it should have. He said council did not feel it could warrant putting money into reserves when taxpayers are faced with large increases in eduation and county taxes.

As an example, Graham said the township recently bought a new grader. He said it should now start building a reserve fund for the time when this grader needs replacement. However, faced with the education and county tax

English course is go

Members of the Haliburton Board of Education have rallied to the support of students and parents and will ensure that a senior English Literature course will be held next school term at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. The enrolment for the course has been estimated at 5 students.

In preparing the list of courses to be offered in the coming year at the high school, principal Andrew Hemphill had identified the English Literature course as one which could be cancelled because of the lack of student enrolment and the need to assign teachers to other areas of study.

The principal explained to the board, at its regular meeting May 26, that within the constraints set by the number of teachers on staff (41) and the number of students who have registered for junior level and compulsory courses, the only option open to him was to cancel a number of proposed options, include the senior (grade 13) English Literature course. Mr. Hemphill had appeared at the April meeting of the board with a similar outline of the next year's course

Stanhope taxes

Stanhope Township residents can breathe a little easier now that the municipal council has brought in its budget. The council has limited township spending to a one percent increase. However, coupled with a 8.6% boost in education requirements and a 33.1% increase in the county budget, Stanhope residents will face an overall tax increase of 8.3%.

While spending on general government services within the township has increased by 29.6 mills, a substantial cut in the roads portion of the budget from 83.3 mills to 56.8 mills accounted for the tight budget control.

The general mill rate for the township has been set at 1,018.8, compared to 940.6 last year.

Ballpark to get attention

With the growth in numbers of people playing baseball in Minden, the lower ball park should receive some upgrading, Kim Colliss told Anson, Hindon and Minden council Thursday night.

Councillors Bob Sisson and Royce Miller agreed to meet with Colliss and Parks Manager Brian Sisson sometime this week for a site inspection to see what can be done to improve the conditions at the park.

Up until two years ago, there were only two or three teams utilizing the field, said Colliss. However, he said there are now about 14 teams and more than 170 people playing baseball.

The main problem with the park is the outfield, said Colliss. He said it is uneven and unsafe. He noted that labour for the upgrading could be provided by local players,

Although the outfield is the main concern at this point, Colliss agreed that the infield could also use some improvements. Reeve Sinc Nesbitt said the infield is slightly bowl shaped, and could use some work. Nesbitt also offered the use of his personal equipment to have the work done.

In addition to repairs to the field, Colliss said the washrooms and benches are in ill repair and should be fixed up. Councillor Sisson said there "hasn't been anything done on the ball diamonds since day one, and that's the problem."

Nesbitt suggested that Colliss meet with the councillors and parks manager to "come to some concensus on what should be done." He said he is not trying to push the problem, aside and urged Colliss to come back to council if the problems are not overcome.

Nesbitt also noted that, ideally, the work should have been done in the fall, and asked Colliss to consider what more work might be needed when the ball season comes to a close.

Lesley Tashlin wins silver

The Haliburton Highlands Secondary School girls track and field team put in an outstanding performance at the all-Ontario meet on the weekend with Lesley Tashlin taking the silver in the senior girls 100 metre hurdles.

Five HHSS girls qualified for the meet with solid performances at the eastern regional meet in Ottawa a week earlier. Although Ta shlin is the only competitor to return from Hamilton with a medal, all the girls put in a strong showing with personal best performances in their events.

Competing at the OFSAA meet in Hamilton were Tashlin, Melanie Duchene, Lori-Anne Duguay, Abby Burk and Jodie McKnight.

At the eastern regional meet on the previous weekend, Tashlin led the HHSS squad with a first place finish in the 100 metre hurdles. Duchene put in a strong showing in the midget girls discus, earning a fourth place finish with her toss of 23 metres. And in the 400 metre relay, the senior girls combined to take the bronze. The relay team is made up of Duguay, Burk, McKnight and Tashlin.

hikes, Graham said this is a bad year for the township to build its reserves.

"In a sense, (the board of education and the county) are robbing us," he said. He said council has to hope the education and county levies are more stable next year in order for the township to regain the ground it will lose this year.

While Graham says the County's levy is normally quite stable, the transfer of social services from municipal to county control accounted for this year's rise.

The education levy, however, is very erratic, says Graham. He points to the education budget hikes over the past two years to illustrate his point.

In 1986, the elementary panel of the board's budget rose by almost 11 per cent. This year the rise was 2.4 per cent. The budget for the secondary panel in 1986 rose by 2.6 per cent, as compared to almost 20 per cent this year.

While the maximum residential tax hike in the township is 11 per cent, each of the six areas will face slightly different increases.

The new mill rate for area 1 (generally known as the Village of Minden) is 729.213, an increase of 10 per cent.

The mill rate for area 2 (the area adjacent to the village) is 686.213, an increase of 10.7 per cent.

The mill rate for area 3 (generally rural areas) is 683.213, an increase of 10.8 per cent.

Area 4 (the Village of Carnarvon and part of Ingoldsby) has its new mill rate set at 688.212, representing a 10.7 per cent increase.

Area 5 (the north-west part of Hindon Township) has its mill rate set at 672.213, an increase of 11 per cent.

Area 6 (the area surrounding a subdivision in Lot 10 Concession A in Anson Township) has its mill rate set at 691.213 an increase of 10.6 per cent.

Capital projects which the new budget provides funding for include: repairs to council chambers ($4,600); streetlights, sidewalks, walkways and parking lot surfacing ($88,070); firehall renovations and insulation ($2,100); road construction ($124,770); conversion of Carnarvon lights ($6,000); landfill site improvements ($8,000); improvements to the ambulance hall ($1,465); replacement or repairs to the zamboni and arena lighting ($33,500); shelving and art restoration at the art gallery ($5,000); improvements to the museum building ($1,000); and purchase of a storage building and vehicle plus improvements to South Water Street Park ($18,828).

Ambulance goes two shifts

The Haliburton and Minden ambulance services will receive additional funding amounting to $260,000 annually, John Eakins, the MPP for Victoria-Haliburton announced last Friday.

The Minden service will receive $110,000 of this sum. The money will go toward an additional two ambulance shifts which will provide the area with 6 hour coverage daily seven days a week. At present, ambulance staff must be called in for emergencies that happen outside the regular eight-hour working week.

The Haliburton ambulance service will receive $150,000 which will go toward at least four full-time ambulance attendants.

"We're entirely satisfied with the extra funding," said Minden ambulance supervisor Rob Luke. "It's what we've been asking for and it's what we needed."

Luke said his service has been short on manpower for some time and that he's been asking for more funding for the past three years.

The extra funding will arrive in mid-June.

Wayne Wood, the Haliburton ambulance supervisor, said he's also pleased that the funding has come through. "We can now give the community ambulance service service on a par with our sister communities," he commented.

The extra funding for Haliburton will provide for a second ambulance crew for the day-shift and one for the evening shift.

Re-assessment considered

Anson, Hindon and Minden Township Council will be setting some extra time aside for its next meeting to discuss a proposal for a property value re-assessment throughout the county.

Council received a request from County Warden Murray Fearrey to provide input into a proposal to call for an assessment with the aim of bringing the assessments for tax purposes up to full market value.

At Thursday's council meeting Reeve Sinc Nesbitt said this is a matter that needs some consideration and suggested it be put over until the next meeting.

In an interview earlier in the week, Finance Committee Cnairman Verne Graham said it is apparent that the township's assessments need to be brought up to date. While there have been a number of reviews in the assessments, he said the last complete re-assessment was done about 65 years ago.

Anson, Hindon and Minden budget highlights

The following are some of the highlights of this year's Anson, Hindon and Minden budget:

- Revenue from the Ingoldsby woodlot will bring in an addition $12,000 for the township this year. While this is offset by $24,200 in related costs, Verne Graham, finance committee chairman, says the program takes people off welfare and ultimately results in savings. This program began in January, when, instead of paying welfare, the township provided jobs for applicants in clearing the 100 acre lot.

- The increased rates for building permits will result in an estimated $24,000 for the township. This is almost double last year's revenue for this department.

The estimated income from the Recreation Department will rise by close to $17,000 this year. Graham explains the increased revenue will be generated by the Recreation Department taking over the operation of the concession stand at the arena.

- The estimated revenue from the township's planning department will drop by about $2,500. Graham says the reduction is the result of the completion of the township's official plan. The three-year project of drafting an official plan for the zoning in the township has come to a close, which results in fewer provincial grants for the planning department.

- An increase in the number of municipal employees, accompanied by increasing wages and benefits, will result in a 15 per cent rise in the cost of administation. The budget for this expenditure has risen to $166,205 from $143,829 last year. On the same note, Graham points out that estimated costs incurred by members of council has remained quite stable at $33,000.

Council is setting aside an additional 35 per cent this year for special projects. The budget for this is set at $143,280 as compared to $105,508 for last year. Some of the projects planned for this year include: the installation of sidewalks and street lighting along Main Street from the bridge to the library and up to the arena; a museum feasibility study; the purchase of video equipment for the museum; a study into the energy efficiency of the arena; a structural evaluation of the arena, and the continuation of the summer recreation program.

- Roadwork, which is always an important consideration at budget time, will not be taking a back seat this year. The budget for grant construction is up 35 per cent to $143,280, while non-grant construction has a budget of $20,600. Close to $9,000 has been set aside for gravel to bring certain roads up to Ministry of Transportation and Communications standards and an additional $55,000 has been transferred from reserves for work on Bobcaygeon Road. The budget for road equipment has more than doubled to $107,000, while the budget for road maintenance has increased by almost $10,000 to $425,925.

- Graham says close to $6,000 has been set aside to upgrade the street lighting in Carnarvon. This is reflected in the budget for this expenditure, which has risen to $26,750.

- The cost for operating the Scotch Line landfill site is expected to rise by more than $12,000 over last year. Graham said the site is gradually nearing its capacity, making management more costly. The budget for this is set at $47,900.

Due to the transfer of welfare responsibilaities to the county, the estimated cost for social services in the township has dropped by almost $58,000. Set aside in the budget this year for social services is $17,391, compared with spending of $94,810 last year.

- Due largely to the start of a five-year plan to restore the collection of Andre Lapine paintings, the budget for the Art Gallery Committee has risen considerably. Graham said an additional $5,000 has been set aside for cleaning and reframing of the art work. The committee's budget is set at $25,972, compared to spending of $18,349 last year.

Good roads ahead

It is encouraging to see that, while the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden has limited its share of the 1987 municipal tax increase to 7.8 per cent, the need for road improvements has not been overlooked.

On average, the condition of the roads in the township could be described as fair, at best. Had council decided to do some of its trimming in the roads department budget, we would certainly be faced with more potholes and patchwork in the future.

Being an area that relies heavily on tourism, the conditions of our roads should be maintained as well as possible. While visitors to the area are encouraged to seek out the many attractions we have to offer, they must first travel along our roadways to get to their destinations. If these roads are not well maintained, the result will inevitably be that fewer people will be willing to visit the attractions.

In addition, first impressions are often very important in the tourism industry. Needless to say, the condition of our roads can make the difference between a good first impression and a bad one.

The emphasis is being placed on road work this year is most evident in the amount set aside for the use of road equipment. The budget for this more than doubled to $107,000, which illustrates the amount of road work that will be carried out this year.

While the cost of all his road work will come out of the pockets of local taxpayers, it will ultimately result in a savings to them. It is less costly to bring roads up to standards and maintain them than it is to allow them to deteriorate to the point where major repairs are needed.

Township council should be commended for its foresight in making road work a priority. It is better to spend a little now than to spend a lot in the future.

A dream

The reopening of the Stedmans store in Haliburton is a cause for celebration on a number of fronts.

Merchants in Haliburton Village are acutely aware of the value of a store the size of Stedmans for generating consumer traffic. The attraction of one store generally benefits those nearby, one of the basic reasons retail outlets tend to cluster in one area.

The re-opening of the store is an endorsement of the economic future of the village and the county as a whole. It bodes well that an enterprise the size of the department store destroyed August 24, is not only returning, but creating additional retail outlets to serve the community and area.

The ribbon cutting on Thursday, will also be a tribute to the tenacity and hard work of Vince and Rose Connaughan. Faced with the complete destruction of everything they had worked for over many years, they have been able to overcome almost impossible odds to see their dream come alive again.

Congratulations!

Don't go near the water

- by Arthur Black -

There's an old rhyme running through my head today. It goes:

Mother may I go out to swim?
Yes, my darling daughter:
Hang your clothes on a hickory limb
But don't go near the water.

Sound advice for anyone who lives in my neck of the woods because it's just been announced that the local swimming hole is closed indefinitely.

You and I can't swim there anymore. Against the law.

Is it because the swimming hole is polluted and we must be protected from infection and disease? Nah. This is an old limestone quarry I'm talking about. The water's deep and green and full of perch and rock bass. I might not care to take the water with my scotch, but its fine for swimming -- as clean as it's ever been.

Are they closing it because they can't find lifeguards to patrol the place? Not at all. The quarry is part of a park controlled by the local Conservation Authority and it's run tighter than a Russian minesweeper. There are gates, parking lots, a ticket office and enough lifeguards and supervisory personnel to launch a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta.

The reason we can't swim there anymore is that last year a tourist wrecked his back jumping into the swimming hole. He sued for two million bucks. The Conservation Authority does not have a spare two million lying around in the bottom drawer -- particularly when it doesn't take a mental giant to figure out that, if this guy wins, there will be no shortage of people lining up to jump into the swimming hole and claim their payoff.

All of which has made the insurance companies go "Eeep!" and tuck their corporate heads way down inside their pinstriped vests. They've jacked the insurance rate so high the Conservation Authority can't get public liability insurance. That's why you and I can't go for a dip down at the swimming hole.

This is where the Canadian legal system gets a little whacko for me. Nobody held a gun to that tourist's head and ordered him to jump. He did it all by himself -- as hundreds of kids have done every sunny day for as many summers as the swimming hole's been there. Now the walls of the quarry are high -- I wouldn't jump off. But if I did and hurt myself in the process, I wouldn't have to look too far to find the person to blame.

It's not the first piece of public liability absurdity we've seen around here. Up until last year there was an exceedingly pleasant way to spend a Sunday afternoon in these parts. You could go into town, rent a canoe and pass a bucolic hour or two, drifting down the Grand River past spectacular limestone cliffs, under bridges, watching blue herons and mallards and kingfishers all Creatures which are cold to the touch or crawl about on many legs inspire us in an instinctive loathing which leads us to shrink back or kill.

Unfortunately, toads fall into this category. Stout and squat with protruding eyes and rough, cool, warty skin, they do lack obvious physical charm. Deliberate in motion, they will often sit quite still, except for the long sticky tongue which shoots out, like the coiled paper in a party horn, to snare the unsuspecting moth or grasshopper.

Since the toxins in their warty skin give them natural protection from most predators, they have not needed speed of movement and can be caught easily. Once caught, a toad will try squirting you and then sit grumpily until you release him. Before you put him down, notice the smoothness of the skin on the belly in contrast to the rough back. On Saturday, June 6, the residents and visitors in Haliburton County will have an opportunity to help provide clean drinking water to villages in India and Africa by getting involved in the Walk for Water. The Highland Pipe Band will lead off from the Zion United Church in Carnarvon at 9:00 a.m., we'll be walking, can you?

Our recent trip to Nicaragua will remain for us a very memorable experience.

For several days we helped Nicaraguan villagers build their own houses. Each villager contributes his own labour and pays for the cost of materials - about $350, but the average wage in Nicaragua is $1 per day.

It was refreshing for us to help in this way. We were in a country that is in the news daily, usually with reports of destruction and death. Working with people in the same spirit as giving your own next door neighbour a hand with a difficult task, makes the politics of power and terror seem such a waste of time.

Fortunately, there are many individuals and groups from Canada, Europe and the U.S.A. who are working in various development projects. CARE of Canada is providing water pipelines and wells in remote villages. We were impressed by the pride and responsibility people take for their water systems. For example, a large water storage tank fed by a pipeline from a distant spring was made into a small oasis. All around was dried ground and wizened trees, but here the overflow water was used to irrigate a small group of papaya trees and sugar cane, with the area fenced to keep out cattle and pigs who might pollute the water and eat the plants.

HAVE is considering a joint project in Nicaragua with CARE to provide water to a village that is also organizing itself for new housing.

That is for the future. June 6 is fast approaching. Can you join us?

The call to support capital punishment

by Bill Kulas

Two weeks ago I received a letter from the House of Commons in Ottawa dated May 5. The letter was sent to me from Bill Domm, MP for Peterborough. Here are his reasons for the imposition of the death penalty. If you agree or disagree with him, drop us a note stating your views.

My principal reasons for supporting capital punishment are as follows: First of all, I feel called to support capital punishment because of the demands of democratic responsibility. Voters in the riding of Peterborough and indeed across Canada have consistently supported reinstatement with a significant majority. As their representative, I feel it incumbent upon me to respond to these demands.

My support for capital punishment is also founded in the belief that our criminal justice system must express a sense of equality between the rights of the murderer and the rights of the victim. Consider the murderer, if arrested he is not only given the counsel of a defence lawyer who protects his interests before a court combined of both a judge and a jury of his peers, he is also informed of his rights and taken into police protection. Society makes great effort to protect the rights of the criminal.

Now consider the victim, a person who through no wish of his or her own is arbitrarily deprived of the most basic human right, our right to life. Nowhere does the victim experience any of the benefits accorded to the guilty party.

A punishment's most distinct value is not a deterrent. Deterrence is a peripheral concern. Punishment's principal goal is that of establishing a standard in society. In the face of planned, premeditated murder, society needs to set forth a penalty which expresses our abhorrence of murder in the strongest possible terms. Life can be measured only in the terms of its own existence.

We have arrived at a place in society where we are becoming desensitized to violence. All around us is violence. The answer to escalating violence, is tougher, not weaker laws.

The existence of capital punishment carries with it not only a sense of equity within out system of justice, but is paramount in establishing the moral foundation of our society. The punishment must fit the crime. Anyone who takes another's life should not count on society to protect his own. The protection of rights and freedoms in society exist for those who follow its rules, not those who break it. Criminals who choose to violate the law, by killing someone should know that by doing so, they risk their own life.

the way to the next town, a distance of perhaps four or five meandering miles downstream. There, you could leave your rented canoe at the dock, stroll uptown for a cool drink, do a little shopping and sightseeing, then catch a free bus ride back to where you started.

That's gone now. Someone figured out what might happen if some tourist in a rented canoe scraped his knee or caught á chill or pinched his pinky and decided to sue. The insurance rate for the canoe rental company went right through the roof. The business folded.

Where will it end? Who knows? Maybe someday our lawyers and judges will get reacquainted with common sense and accept the rather simple concept that we humans do, occasionally, have to accept some responsibility for our actions.

In the meantime, sky's the limit chum. We've got folks suing tobacco companies because those same folks were stupid enough to suck several thousand cigarettes and get cancer from it. We've got folks who, after sitting in a bar and getting plastered, go out and kill someone in their car -- then turn around and sue the bartender who served them. Last week in Montreal a barber was sued by a customer for cutting his hair too short. The customer caught a cold. His lawyer feels a $25,000 settlement would warm his client right up.

Still, things could be worse, I suppose. We could be living south of the border, where they really know how to gang rape the concept of public liability.

Two years ago, a despondent Manhattanite decided to end it all by throwing himself in front of a speeding New York subway train. The train ran over him, but he didn't die. He was left a paraplegic, but a paraplegic with chutzpah. The guy sued the New York Public Transit System for several million dollars. His lawyer argued that the Transit System had been negligent in...not preventing his attempted suicide.

That's the bizzare news.

The incredible news is: he won.

New Canadian identity

- by Bill Scott, MP -

Secretary of State David Crombie recently announced a new departmental program aimed at encouraging a clearer sense of Canadian identity.

The objective of the new Canadian Anniversaries Program (CAP) is to assist Canadians in all regions of the country in the celebration of significant, milestone anniversaries.

This program is part of a multifaceted effort that seeks to further develop, in individual Canadians, an appreciation of our unique heritage, identity and citizenship.

Each year, there are a wide variety of anniversaries which contribute to the diversity of Canadian life. From the 25th anniversary of a volunteer organization to the 50th anniversary of a ballet company to the 75th anniversary of a linguistic association to the 100th anniverary of a municipal government - anniversaries mark the progress of a nation and its inhabitants towards greater maturity and awareness of who they are as a people,

The first funding under the new program, announced on May 15, 1987 in St. John's, Nfld., was a sum of

Many tourism - related events slated

- by John Eakins, MPP -

Now that the Victoria Weekend has passed, I think it is safe to say the tourist season is upon us here in Victoria-Haliburton.

One of the great attractions in the riding every summer is the Ontario Open Fiddle and Step Dance Contest held in Bobcaygeon in late May. Every year this event attracts thousands to the area so I am pleased to see my Ministry will be directly and indirectly promoting this event.

Through my Ministry's the Destinations East Program, we will be directly assisting with a grant to the non-profit organization to enhance the marketing program.

In addition, the Ontario Lottery Corporation will be broadcasting a Wintario draw in Bobcaygeon. On July 23, the Bobcaygeon-Verulam Community Centre will be the site of the popular weekly television program.

I know the program will give the area and the Ontario Open Fiddle and Step Dance Contest an even greater profile throughout the province.

And speaking of giving attractions a higher profile, a new program of the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation and the Ministry of Natural Resources should give a higher profile to our provincial parks.

The two ministries are providing vacancy reports on our popular provincial parks.

Campers will be able to rely on accurate, up-to-date information on 53 Provincial Parks bounded by Killarney Provincial Park near Sudbury in the north, Windsor in the southwest and by Carillon Provincial Park near Hawkesbury in the east.

A 24 hour recorded report is available to Toronto callers at 963-2992. Campers throughout the province can call toll-free numbers at 1-800-268-3735 in English and 1-800-268-3736 in French. The toll-free service operates seven days a week from 8:00 a.m. until 6:00 p.m. starting May 15th.

From May 15 to June 26, the reports will be updated daily. Each park in the reporting program will provide two figures. The actual vacancy as of 3:00 p.m. and a predicted vacancy for 8:00 p.m. that evening. The reports will run until September 4.

Information can also be obtained from the Ontario Travel Information Centres listed in the Provincial Government blue pages of the telephone directory. Reservations for specific Provincial park sites can be made by calling the park directly.

HHSS student Abby Burk passes the baton to Jodi McKnight during practice for the senior girls 400 metre relay last week. The relay team took third place at the eastern regional meet on May 23 and 24 to qualify for the all-Ontario meet this past weekend. Although they did not place at the OFSAA meet in Hamilton, they put in a strong showing with a personal best time. Other runners on the team are Lesley Tashlin and Lori-Ann Duguay.

Toads don't cause warts

move away with grave dignity. Don't rush to wash; you won't develop warts.

If the toad you've just been examining was in your garden, you are fortunate. In the course of one night's feeding, he will fill his stomach several times with all the garden nuisances: slugs, caterpillars, wood lice and earwigs. A toad is a good friend to the gardener. Every garden should welcome him.

Although your toad can live quite happily in the relatively dry conditions of the garden, in the spring he must find a shallow pool or ditch to breed in. Sometime in April or May, depending on the temperature, the male will begin his melodious high pitched trilling call for the female. For this brief period the stout phlegmatic toad from your garden becomes an amorous adventurer who will jump on anything, even another male.

Sometimes several males will attach themselves to one female who, fortunately for her, is always much larger than the male. During this brief period of breeding frenzy toads are very vulnerable. Nothing, not even being picked up, distracts them from the business at hand.

Now the female will lay two long strings of jelly-encased eggs attached to submerged vegetation. The jelly casing will expand and absorb sediment so that shortly the eggs will be almost invisible. In 3-10 days the eggs will hatch into tiny solid-black tadpoles and thin tails, quite unlike the larger, wider-tailed frog tadpoles. The tadpoles develop rapidly and in about 6 weeks they are ready to leave the pond as little toadlets, no larger than a cricket.

At this stage the tiny toadlets are consumed in great quantities by birds like the killdeer, apparently unaffected by the toxins in the skin. Racoons, always resourceful, avoid the toxins in adult toads by flipping them over and eating through the smooth belly skin.

During the winter, toads hibernate below the frost line in loose sandy soil. Unlike some frogs, which produce their own anti-freeze, the toad must avoid freezing or die. He hibernates with his head tucked between his forelegs and his hind feet close to his body to conserve heat. With the spring thaw he will emerge to look for shallow water and begin his melodious trilling.

If you are lucky enough to have a toad in your garden, make him comfortable. Leave him a leaf pile or some unmowed corner to hide in., Put a shallow container on the ground to catch rain water. On a warm evening when you are gardening or just sitting enjoying the night, you will be entertained by him as, cat-like he stalks insects catching them with his tongue $125,000 to assist celebrations across the province next year marking the 100th anniversary of municipal government in Newfoundland.

Under the new program, numerous categories of anniversaries will be eligible. For example, anniversaries of an historical, ethnic, social, artistic, economic, political, religous, voluntary, municipal, labour, provincial territorial, constitutional, linguistic and multicultural nature, would be given consideration.

The program will allow Canadians to better organize and conduct their celebrations by enabling them to take advantage of support mechanisms already in place within the Department of Secretary of State. These include: protocol advice and assistance in the organization of ceremonies, logistical know how in the programming of events, arranging for a possible gift from the Government of Canada or facilitating the visit of a dignitary. Limited financial assistance ("seed money") will also be made available to cover immediate start-up costs.

Additional information and application forms will be made available through the Department of the Secretary of State, 25 St. Clair Ave., East, Suite 200, Toronto, Ontario, M4T 1M2, telephone (416) 973-7541.

Arts group success due to volunteers

The continually growing interest in the arts in Haliburton County is largely due to the countless hours of work put in by the volunteers, says Joan Hoad, president of the Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts.

At a special dinner to honour these volunteers, on May 23, Hoad said the enthusiastic support of volunteers has helped the Guild flourish and to develop its offshoots; the Rails' End Gallery and the School of Fine Arts, which had more than 1,000 students last summer.

The Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts was formed in 1963 by volunteers who set up a summer exhibition and sale in Carnarvon. "We have come a long way," said Hoad, "from 504 visitors in Carnarvon to 5,400 last year" at J.D. Hodgson Elementary School.

In addition to this, 17,000 attended the Gallery shows between March 1986 and March 1987. Close to 900 people visited the Native Art Show in March.

Hoad also noted that, as a result of school visits, a number of students have asked if they could volunteer at the Gallery this summer. "Who knows what future careers may be planned as a result of this summer's experience."

Hoad said it is important for a community to support the arts. Quoting from a letter from Peter Marsh, Art Director of Wexford Collegiate Art Centre, Hoad said the arts offset the daily routine of work. Art, "helps to fulfill life, it gives it guts, humour, feelings and meanings," she said. "It often helps us to understand where we have come from and where we are going."

Another aspect of supporting the arts, says Hoad, is the encouragement and education the Guild provides to its members. As an example of this, she noted the situation of a former guild member who has now moved from the area. Hoad said that since moving, this past member has all but given up her art due to a lack of interest and encouragement. "This was a most talented young woman who had been making some stunning (silk) garments before she left Haliburton."

Hoad also noted that the arts are a cultural attraction in the community.

David Anderson, from Mariposa's Whole Loaf Theatre, plays a tune on the accordian while Steve Bowskill looks on. Bowskill was dressed as a soldier, during an audience participation part of the show at the Haliburton Arts Guild volunteer night last week.

Walk will help Third World nations

The Gambia. Most people would recognize the name as being that of a third world nation, but they would be hard-pressed to identify its location or relate anything about the tiny country.

That may be the case now, but this Saturday, many volunteers from throughout the county, and beyond, will be participating in an effort to help this African nation provide clean fresh water for its people.

The Help A Village Effort (HAVE) committee of Haliburton County has earmarked the funds raised through its annual Walk for Water, for use in this country. Similar efforts in the past have assisted in the drilling of wells and water delivery systems in India.

According to Minden resident, and former teacher, Clarence McInerney, the west African nation known as The Gambia, is a narrow strip of land leading in from the Atlantic Ocean. To provide a local perspective, he notes the width of the country can be represented by the distance from here to Coboconk, with the length from here to Brockville. The country straddles the Gambia River.

Mr. McInerney is familiar with the country as he spent a period of time there last year, instructing at a teacher's college. During his stay, he was able to see first hand the extreme poverty and serious conditions under which the populace must live. The annual average income for the country is $330, making the nation the third poorest in the world. Life expectancy is 32 to 34 years of age with many infants dying of dysentery, typhoid, malaria and worms.

The lack of clean, readily available water sources, such as properly drilled wells, contribute to the low standard of living and health conditions.

This Saturday, walkers will be stepping out from Carnarvon in an effort to raise funds to provide The Gambia with water wells. The walkers have been busy the last few weeks gathering pledges from area residents based on the number of miles they will walk. As well, volunteer organizers have been preparing the necessary supplies for the refreshment and aid stations located along the walk route.

Those wishing to take part in the walk are encouraged to get their pledge forms as soon as possible, (see the list of locations where they are available in the notice in the centre of this newspaper). And for those who are unable to make the trek, you are encouraged to sponsor a walker or offer your assistance as volunteer on the day.

The Gambia may be just an obscure third world nation to most, but this weekend, area residents can help bridge the gap that separates us from them by stepping out in the fourth annual Walk for Water.

AHM council briefs

Site Plan Approved: Anson, Hindon and Minden Township lent its support to a proposal for a fuel and car dealership to be located on Highway 35 in Minden.

Charles Muli approached council Thursday asking for support of his site plan, which still needs approval from the Ministry of Transportation and Communications.

The MTC is only willing to allow highway developments that provide food, fuel or accommodation. Muli's plan for an auto dealership apparently does not fall under this heading. However, by installing gas pumps he hopes his development can proceed.

After approving the site plan, Reeve Sinc Nesbitt offered continued assistance from the township in seeing the development through.

Refreshment Stand: Council gave its approval to Scott Harris to operate a refreshment vehicle at the Carnarvon Bowling Alley this summer.

Prior to receiving a licence to operate, Harris' stand must first pass a health inspection. He said he hoped to be open by this past weekend.

Financial Reports: The township's financial statements received a clean bill of health from municipal auditor Gary Thurston.

After a lengthy review of the 1986 financial statements at Thursday's meeting, Thurston commended the township for its budgetting procedures. The complete financial statements will be published at a later date.

Crumbling Blocks: The township will be investigating the guarantee on the interlocking sidewalk blocks in the downtown area after it was noticed that certain areas are beginning to deteriorate.

Reeve Sinc Nesbitt said the township and the BIA should look into what sort of guarantee is in place. He noted that once the outside coating of the brick is eroded, the blocks will begin to disintegrate.

Park Plan: Council passed a resolution to update its park plan Thursday, as well as to apply for funding through the Ministry of Tourism.

Clerk Bev Millar told council that a resolution was needed in order to obtain funds for the update under the new Community Recreation and Planning program.

Butt Out: Smoking will no longer be permitted in the library and cultural centre.

Council passed a resolution Thursday banning smoking in these buildings.

Keep Quiet: The township will be reviewing its noise bylaw in an attempt to make it more functional.

Clerk Bev Millar told council that the present bylaw is ineffective. She said it is dependent on metering equipment that the township does not have. The bylaw enforcement officer will be asked to study the bylaw and make a recommendation to council.

AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the Haliburton County Board of Education

We have examined the balance sheet of the Haliburton County Board of Education as at December 31, 1986 and the revenue fund statement of operations and the capital fund statement of operations for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the board as as December 31, 1986 and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in accordance with the accounting principles described in Note 1 to the financial statements applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

HALIBURTON COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

FOR THE YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1986

1. Accounting Principles

The financial statements have been prepared by the Board using accounting principles that are prescribed by the Ministry of Education and are considered appropriate for Ontario School Boards. These principles are in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles except as follows:

(a) Accrual Accounting

Revenue and Expenditure are accounted for the accrual method except that:

(i) No provision is made for interest on unmatured debenture debt from the date of payment to the end of the fiscal year.

(ii) No provision is made to record the liability for retirement and/or sick leave benefits accruing over the working lives of employees.

(b) Fixed Assets

Fixed assets are charged to current expenditures unless financed by long-term debt. Principal and interest charges on net long-term liabilities are included as expenditures in the period due. Fixed assets including capital leases, described as capital outlay to be recovered in future years, are included on the balance sheet only to the extent of the balances of the related net long-term liabilities outstanding and of the related temporary financing at the end of the fiscal year.

(c) Reserves and Reserve Funds

Reserve and Reserve Funds represent funds appropriated for general and specific purposes and are charged or credited to revenue fund operations in the year appropriate or drawn down.

(d) Under/Over Requisitions of Taxes

The difference between the net expenditures of any year and the amounts received to finance these expenditures is carried forward to the subsequent year to either increase or reduce the net revenue requirement from ratepayers.

2. Reserve for Working Funds

The reserve for working funds as at December 31, 1986 is applicable to the Elementary and Secondary School operations of the board as follows:

ELEMENTARY	$338,500
SECONDARY	246,500
	$585,000

3. Retirement Gratuities Plan

Under the retirement gratutities plan, unused sick leave can accumulate and employees may, after a certain period of employment (teaching staff - 10 years, non-teaching staff - 5 years), become entitled to a cash payment of 50% of the unused credits to a maximum of 50% of annual salary when they leave the board's employment.

These accumulated days, to the extend that they could be used to determine the cash payment to an employee on termination, amount to $2,127,000 as at December 31, 1986 ($1,799,000 as at December 31, 1985). No provision has been made on account of the retirement gratuties plan.

The amount paid in the current year in respect of the retirement gratuities plan was $42,340 ($48,999 in 1985).

4. Net Long-Term Liability Repayments

Of the net long-term liabilities of $205,328, principal of $205,328 plus interest of $47,771 is payable over the next five years as follows:

	PRINCIPAL	INTEREST	TOTAL
1987	$ 36,437	$15,510	$51,947
1988	39,369	12,753	52,122
1989	42,133	9,774	51,907

5. Debt Charges and Capital Loan Interest

ELEMENTARY

Principal payments on Long-Term Liabilities	$ 40,471
Interest Payments on Long-Term Liabilities	18,439

options. He was asked at that time to reconsider the list.

When students and parents learned that the senior course may be cancelled they objected, they made their feelings known to school officials and members of the board. A delegation was in attendance Tuesday to express their concern first hand.

Speaking for the parents, Mr. Earl Sisson of Haliburton told the board members that while the dropping of the course may affect only five students these were pupils who were counting on the course as one which would be valuable in obtaining admission to a university. He pointed out that the cost of maintaining the course hardly compared with the expense the board has encountered in maintaining the Dorset Elementary School, a facility that was a candidate for closure several years ago.

The parents pointed out that the students who would be affected by the course cancellation had been planning their high school credit program with this option in mind. It was noted the students would not likely obtain as high a grade average if they were required to substitute science or mathematics courses to replace the literature option.

It was also suggested that the students might have made other course selections at the beginning of this school year, if they had known the literature course would not be available in 1987-88. As well, the option of applying now for admission to a college was no longer available.

A suggestion that the students might take the course through correspondence, with tutorial assistance offered through the school, was rejected by the parents. They said correspondence courses did not offer the ongoing student-teacher interaction which they felt was essential for such a course.

Those board members who offered their comments on the issue generally agreed with the stand of the parents. Trustee Cheryl Murdoch (Lutterworth) said the course was an asset for the students, and while it may require some adjustments to be made, the board should back the students' and parents' request.

Trustee Leonard Salvatori (Dysart) told the parents if the board backed the request, the parents must also back the trustees in their decision. He noted the board is coming under pressure regarding the increased cost of education.

An informal vote of the trustees indicated a majority in favour of retaining the English Literature course. The high school principal said that, depending on the requirements of other courses, there may be the need for another teacher at the school this coming year to meet the requirement for the course.

The final word came from a grade 13 student, Ruth Stouffer, "We are stuck without the course," she told the trustees. "The teachers don't want to create a financial load on the board, but we really need this course. We are grateful."

Peak year for worm infestation

The forests in many areas of Haliburton County are now showing signs of moderate to heavy defoliation. The hardest hit areas seem to be centred around the village of Haliburton.

An insect called the Bruce Spanworm along with the spring and fall Canker-worms is responsible for the defoliation. The larval form of these three insects, also known as loopers, caterpillars or 'worms' looks quite similar, pale to dark green with distinct light to dark lines on the back and sides. When full grown, the caterpillars are about 25 mm long.

The eggs began hatching earlier than normal this year because of the warm weather in April and, as a result, feeding is now completed or will be shortly. The worms are falling to the ground leaving masses of silken threads on tree branches and stems. There they will pupate and emerge in the fall as adults. The males are greyish moths which were very noticeable last fall. The females are also grey but they are wingless.

Sugar maple leaves are the preferred food but during heavy infestations the worms will eat almost any time of leaf from the forest floor to the tops of trees. This is the fourth year the spanworm population has been increasing to its peak level. Many people are seeing the infestation and resulting defoliation for the first time, although it has occurred to a lesser extent

LCBO marks 60 years of service

In celebrating 60 years of service in Minden, past and present managers and staff of the LCBO will be on hand today at the store to welcome visitors with coffee, donuts and memories of the early days.

The Minden LCBO first opened its doors to the public in June of 1947 in the building now occupied by The Times. Roy Windover, who had only recently returned from overseas was the first manager.

"Things were totally different" when the LCBO first opened here said Windover. In addition to being an outlet for wines and spirits, the store also handled the retail sales of beer.

With a staff of just three people, the store used to handle from 2,000 to 3,000 cases of beer each week, says Windover. He said all of this was loaded and unloaded by hand, making for some very hard work.

Minden's LCBO was the 136th of its kind to open in the province. And after a very brief training session of just two days, the reins of management were handed over to Windover. "There was no training," he said, "you just had to use your head."

Despite the minimal training, he was able to manage the store with some enviable efficiency. He said that during the early years the Minden store was used as an example of a model store for others in the province to follow.

At a starting salary of $1,875 a year, Windover's responsibilities included running the store, keeping an accurate balance of sales and inventory and reporting daily to the government. Unlike today, Windover said, his dealings with the government were straight forward, with little of the red tape which seems to go hand in hand with today's government dealings.

Windover managed the store for nine years before being offered a job as district supervisor in charge of about 35 stores. However, he said he was not interested in the responsibility and decided to pursue other interests.

Kevin Lewis became the Store's second manager, and served here for two years before accepting a promotion and move to Toronto. At this point, in 1958, Harry Cowan was next in line for the job of manager.

Cowan, who is now retired and still living in Minden, said he always enjoyed working at the LCBO. After returning from overseas in 1946, he said he wanted to find a job at either the LCBO of with the Ministry of Transportation. During 1947 and '48 he worked Sundays to Fridays at the Kawartha Lumber Mill and on Saturdays he worked at the LCBO.

"Roy got me in on Saturdays, and he asked if I wanted to come on permanent."

On June 15, 1949, Cowan started to work full time at the store and he says he has no regrets. He said he always enjoyed working there and remembers how well he was treated when he was seriously injured in a car accident in 1952.

Cowan said he was unconscious for 45 days after the accident and with little seniority, he had built up only a very short sock leave. "The LCBO was really good to me," he said. They agreed to keep his wages as long as he was away and give him a chance to repay when he returned to work.

In 1950 when Ken Lewis was promoted, Cowan took over as the store's third manager. He stayed on for another 26 years in this position until they decided to move the store to its present location in 1976. Although he had a few years to go before reaching retirement age, Cowan said he decided to retire early instead of having to learn all the details of running the store under the new self-serve system.

Looking back, Cowan said the LCBO was always a good place to work. "If you don't enjoy your work, don't do it," he said. "Get something else."

Cowan was in the Minden hospital last week for some tests. However, he is hoping to feel well enough to attend the anniversary celebrations today at the store. Roy Windover will also be on hand, along with the present manager, Bob Reynolds, and the staff.

Stedmans store ready for Thursday opening

Like the proverbial Phoenix rising from the ashes, the Stedmans Department Store in Haliburton is set to open its doors to the public this Thursday morning.

The business, owned by Vince Connaughan, was levelled in a blaze which swept through the structure August 24. The fire also consumed a number of adjacent structures, resulting in the closure of three businesses, in buildings owned by Connaughan.

After the initial shock of the loss, Mr. Connaughan began the task of rebuilding his business, and replacing the store which is one of the economic anchors of the Haliburton business core. He was particularly eager to be able to take advantage of the summer commercial traffic.

The opening this week, although somewhat later than his initial plans, will meet that important deadline, and will certainly be welcomed by other merchants in the community who benefit from the traffic generated by the department store.

The new store, according to Connaughan, is almost identical in size, with 16,000 square feet of retail space. However, the fact that the new retail outlet was created first on the drawing board rather than piecemeal expansion, has allowed him to plan a store which is efficient to manage and which will provide a pleasant shopping environment for the consumer.

Except for the large toy department, the new Stedmans Department Store is all on the main street level. The lack of posts and supporting walls provides a spacious open shopping area. The store is well lit, with the usual bank of main street windows providing an abundance of natural light. Shoppers will be able to move easily from one department to another within the store with plenty of wide aisles and conveniently located merchandise display areas.

Shoppers will find the familiar lines of merchandise which the store had become known for, Connaughan said. In some areas the variety and selection has been increased, particularly in wool, ladies wear, greeting cards and gifts.

The tragic fire opened up a number of possibilities for the local entrepreneur. He took advantage of the loss to create a shopping mall. There are fourteen smaller retail outlets adjacent to the Stedmans Store. Three are on the main street level while the remainder are on the lower second floor mall. The reconstruction has also allowed Connaughan to create a rear entrance off Railway Street, providing direct access to the additional parking in this area. Once inside the building, the shopper has access to all 15 retail outlets without having to venture outdoors. While some of the smaller retail units have been spoken for, most will not be ready for the opening this week. However, Connaughan feels it won't be long before the units are filled.

Surrounded by staff members busy with the last minute preparations, the whine of a saw and the thud of hammers, Connaughan is obviously pleased by what has been accomplished since the fire of last August. He notes however that his efforts have been backed by the support of the entire community. "They've been behind us all the way, and for that both my wife Rose and I are most grateful."

And so, with the snip of a ribon this Thursday morning, Vince Connaughan, his family, staff and community will see the rekindling of a dream which, just for a brief moment, disappeared in smoke last summer.

Worms make presence felt

the previous three years in many areas.

Complete defoliation in two more more consecutive years may kill a tree. Most trees will grow new leaves depending on the health of the tree and the amount of green leaf left after the worms are finished feeding. Each tree is different. Some branches may die, even some trees, but if a tree is healthy, the spanworms alone are not likely to kill it. Old or overmature trees or trees suffering stress from other factors (e.g. moisture, disease, other insects) may not be able to survive.

Some small seedlings which have not yet established their root system might also die. Another effect will be reduced diameter growth. For maple syrup producers it may be prudent to reduce the number the number of taps per tree in sugar bushes next spring in order to help the trees build up their energy reserves.

Controlling the spanworm is accomplished by natural means. The most noticeable control are the large (25mm long) black beetles which can be found in spanworm infested areas. This "Ground Beetle" is a natural insect predator that will eat the worms and pupae. Since the caterpillars remain in the soil until the emerge in the fall, many insect predators along with mice and shrews will eat large numbers. Birds also eat the worms. In addition there is a type of naturally occurring virus which is very important in collapse of infestations.

This year appears to be the peak in population for the spanworm in most areas of the District and it is expected that all the natural controls will come into place to cause a collapse in the infestation.

For additional information, please contact the Minden District office of the Ministry of Natural Resources. Telelphone (705) 286-1521.

Voices of HHSS

Hi there!

This week we would like to continue with a story we did a while ago on the band exchange between our school and the Sharbot Lake High School. Our band members were the hosts, and lots of activities were planned to make the visitors feel welcome.

The group arrived at the school at 3:30 on Wednesday afternoon. Most students missed seeing the bus come in (unless you were daydreaming out the window looking toward the back parking lot), so their first major appearance was to come the next day. This was the small concert given by the Sharbot Lake band for the grade 9 and 10 students. We enjoyed it very much. Later that night, the school's annual May Concert featured the combination of both bands in a performance similar to the one two weeks ago (which we wrote about) - simply excellent.

While the visitors were here, they visited such places as the Sky Slider in

Allow children to take directions

by Faith Aggett

Adults are often confused by all the theories they hear of what is the best thing to do for a young child. They hear of the value of permitting a child room to grow and yet are aware of the theory that children should be required by adults to observe definite patterns. Some theories suggest that controls are damaging to the growth of the child as an individual and oppose the routines and regulations of a group care programme. They fear that it is too structured and caters to group activities rather than the developing of self. Because of the individuality of children, all these theories have some truth to them, which makes it very confusing if an adult tries to decide which is right and which is wrong.

I believe that the requirements of group care living can be such that they will enhance rather than impede the life of a child. It is completely impossible for a pre-schooler to operate without rules and regulations. And if it is not clear as to what is expected of them. Very often, a child is negative and resistant because he does not understand what is expected of him. If the requirements are properly presented, a child soon comes to realize that his acceptance of them will be a satisfaction to himself.

Perhaps the existence of a framework of predictable limits thoroughly understood by a child provides a feeling of confidence and makes control easy to accept. Certainly such a plan of control cuts down an adult's need to coax, cajole, nag, scold or become angry when she is teaching a child. Without these things to interfere with child-adult relationship, control becomes more a matter of co-operation than of conflict between child and adult and bonds their relationship. It may be that the existence of dependable requirements and knowledge of the inevitable limits of group care make sense to the preschooler. Inconsistences and instability may disturb his state of mind.

This generally hold true for all preschool children and when establishing requirements in the home there are general principles to keep in mind. Rules should be few as possible and necessary; clearly defined and obviously reasonable; conistently asked and consistently carried out; of interest to a child and within the capacity to fulfil.

The method in which the adult presents the requirements to the child and the way in which direction is given are very important factors in helping a child to become happy in his acceptance from the child with the knowledge that the requirements stem from careful wise consideration and not from a feeling of personal power or a momentary whim.

Haliburton, Camp Kandalore and the museum. As our band did when they were away, Sharbot Lake band members stayed with various members of our Concert band. We hope they enjoyed their short stay here as we did there.

Among other school oriented events, those who qualified in track and field at their last meet advanced to OFFSA competition in Hamilton and the archery team travelled to Lakefield last Wednesday with good results. Alex Little came in first in his division and Denenna Davis came in a respectable third in hers.

With the warm weather of summer setting in and summer jobs upon him, some of us might be forgetting something. Of course we all know that as of Monday, June 1, there are only 15 more days (not including weekends) until the official last day of school (hooray!) but what about the grand event that takes up six of those days? Yes folks, exams! We all love 'em and study hard at least three weeks in advance for them, right? Sure! Exam schedules are up all over the school, so how could we forget? However, the fact remains that night-before cramming still happens. Why? Forgetfulness? Ignorance? None of the above -- sun, lakes, pools, tans...freedom, in a sense. Good luck!

Well, the heat's unbearable so we'd better go. In closing, the writing staff of this column wish to thank whoever was responsible for replacing the old, tattered and torn Canadian flag hanging in front of the school with a nicer new one. Thanks!

Heather Donaldson, Misti Campbell, Dianne Garbutt, Katy Beach.

Did you know?

by Doreen Hawman

Are you considering making some major repairs or improvements to your house or property?

First, is the selection of a contractor, getting two estimates is always the wise thing to do. The estimate you decide upon should be written in the form of a contract. Before signing make sure this lists any extras, the type and amount of work to be done, total cost, the date of completion and who is responsible for cleaning up afterwards.

Always read the fine print. Avoid "progression" clauses which say you must pay at specified times during the course of the work regardless of whether or not the job is progressing to your satisfaction.

Make sure all subtrades are covered and listed in the contract in order to avoid a nasty surprise of being presented with a bill you thought was covered in the estimate.

Check warranties and guarantees carefully. A contractors reputation and length of time in business is important.

A "10" year guarantee is of no value, if the contractor goes out of business.

If a large amount of money is involved it may be wise to have a lawyer go over the contract, in order to spot any hidden clauses before you sign.

Never pay the full amount of the contract before all the work is completed. If you require help with forms or have a question that needs answering, contact the Haliburton County Information Centre, in the Drag River Municipal Building Maple Avenue, Haliburton, open daily 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. or call 457-2733. Our office in Minden in situated in the Municipal building Milne Street and is open every Tuesday 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. or call 286-4100.

"No Air, No Deal!"

Quote of local citizen Elwood Cranston.

On Monday, Elwood Cranston walked into the showroom of a County Mercury Dealer. His first words were "No Air, No Deal" He explained, the heat of the summer was nearly upon us and to keep his pet 'Bare Naked Rooster' cool, while travelin', he needed an Air Conditioned car. He'd always owned a Ford, but if he couldn't get a good deal on a car with Air Conditioning there'd be no deal, he'd just stick with his present Ford and an open window. A County Mercury Courteous Salesperson was quick to point out to Elwood that till Saturday June 6th, 1987, only, he could purchase a Brand New Escort GL with AIR CONDITIONING included for only $8,450. He also told Elwood that he could have NO EXTRA CHARGE AIR CONDITIONING on selected Taurus, Topaz and Tempos. As Elwood drove away in his Red Escort GL he was heard to say to his pet Rooster "There's a Good Deal Better, Right Now, At Your County Mercury Dealers"

The official opening of Finishing Touch and The Nook stores in Haliburton took place on Saturday, May 23. On hand to perform the official ribbon cutting was Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey, assisted by The Finishing Touch owner Connie Robinson while John Robinson, left, and Christopher Bishop, owner of The Nook held the ribbon.

Trent-Severn report

On Tuesday, May 19 the lakes in Haliburton area averaged 81.2%. This was a level that held nearly constant, since Thursday, May 14. Only minimum flows had been run from most dams in that time due to the water gained from a rain the night of Thursday, May 14.

This week (until Friday May 22) was dry save for about 8 mm Friday morning. Still only minimum discharges were required as most of the Kawarthas have a small surplus, which is being held pending future dry conditions.

Without very dry conditions and with even a few modest rains the lakes seem to be able to hold their levels. This could maintain the reserves in the Haliburton and Northern Peterborough reservoir lakes nearer to the ten year average. For May 27 the ten year average is about 94%.

Horticulturists to hear speaker on wetlands

submitted

With all the very warm weather in early spring that gave us the urge to plant seeds, to get out into the garden earlier than most years, we now pause and wonder just what happened.

Now is the time for warm weather and planting and with such cool temperatures things seem to be quite reversed. The grass is growing nicely since that most needed rain and the perennials are growing well. Eventually warm weather will come our way and there will be plenty of work to do.

Away up there on the trees the caterpillars are enjoying the fresh new foliage on the trees. Then came the birds, who seem to enjoy these same luscious worms. Yes the birds are nesting and the air seems filled with a mighty chorus of songsters, birds of so many kinds and all so beautiful.

Twenty years or so ago, we in the village could look forward each spring to the call of the "Whip-Poor-Will" and the "thud, thud" sound of the bittern over there in the swamp. We don't hear that any more. Yes, we still hear the frogs and the Red Winged blackbirds - but for how long? Gradually our swamp lands around the Village are being filled in for building purposes, so goes the bittern the whip-poor-wills, ducks - to look farther afield for a habitat. But we who have lived our lifetime here do miss these old familiar sounds.

A short time ago we enjoyed the article in The Times re wetlands.

At the June meeting of the Minden and District Horticultural Society, we will be privileged to meet and listen to Ian Mac Nab who will be the guest speaker - on the "Conservation of Wetlands" and he will have films to illustrate his talk. So mark your calendar - June 2 7:30 p.m. in the court room, Minden - and come to hear this speaker and enjoy the films that go along with it. Admission is free and everyone is welcome.

There will be the usual competitions for members, draws for those who wish to participate and light refreshments for everyone.

We have been most fortunate to have had outstanding speakers again this year. Recently we had an excellent talk and demonstration by Elizabeth Carrell - re the preservation of flowers and plant life, i.e.

1. The drying methods of flowers, leaves, etc., upright or upside down.

2. The pressing of flowers, foliage etc. which can be used to make many beautiful items such as place cards, pictures, hasti-notes etc.

3. The preserving of branches etc., using glycerine - and the silica gel method of preserving flowers. There is also a sand method.

Yes, it was a most fascinating and interesting evening and most informative too.

Then recently we also viewed an excellent film showing the preparation of soil for planting, the actual planting and the end results.

Who can resist horticulture? Even though it may be only one plant on your window sill that you care for by watering, fertilizing, giving proper light and temperature - and even the frequent "talk to" gives so much pleasure!

Members of the Society keep busy - planting time is at hand and there are numerous beds and planters around the village to be taken care of.

Delegates are looking forward to the Ontario Convention at Kingston in June.

Plans are well under way for the Annual Flower Show August 6, 7th in the Community Centre Auditorium. The theme this year is "Floral Isles". The prize list is ready for distribution.

Almost forgot, hope you have your pumpkin seeds started - there is a prize for the largest pumpkin again this year.

By the way, if you still have some Sunflower seeds left over from bird feed, stick them in the ground right away, there is a prize for the largest sunflower head.

Good planting and growing everyone!

May meeting of Women's Institute

Mrs. C. Wilson, vice president, welcomed the 19 members of Women's Institute at the Common Room May 20, reading "If you have a garden". After the usual opening, Mrs. Kernohan gave her treasurer's report and Mrs. W. Moore told of sending 27 cards since the first of April. Collections were taken for Pennies for Friendship and Card Fund.

The PRO report and Facts of W.I. prepared by Mrs. Sears were read by Mrs. Moore. Mrs. Wilson thanked all who helped to make the District Annual of May 12 so successful. The programme will be planned May 26.

Mrs. Lyman Cox, District Director, gave highlights of the District Annual of Victoria East. Mrs. A. Coulter then gave several amusing readings.

Details of Pennies for Friendship were read from the W.I. history book which is available at Minden Library, this by Mrs. Wilson.

Next meeting will be picnic meeting at home of Doris and Jim Grant June 17, with all to bring dishes, chairs and food. After the meeting there was a sale of plants from the roll call with auctioneer Verla. Then all enjoyed a cup of tea and snack served by the only one of the lunch committee who was present.

Some of the executive members of W.I. met on the afternoon of May 26 at the Denzil Cox home. The ladies planned the programmes for the coming year so these may be ready for the next meeting. Plans were also started for our 8th anniversary open house to be at the Common Room on September 12.

Hello Readers!

A beautiful day but no rain. Our week started with services on Sunday evening with Rev. and Mrs. J. Burgess in charge with Mr. and Mrs. Thompson assisting.

Tuesday morning, service in the chapel was conducted by Rev. Kent of the Minden Baptist Church.

We welcome to Hyland Crest two new residents, Mr. and Mrs. Gauthier. We hope that they will like it here.

Sorry to report the sudden passing of Helena Brown. She has been here a long time and we will miss her very much.

The ladies came from West Guilford on Thursday for our tea party. After enjoying the goodies very much, we had a sing song.

Terry Barnum came and had dinner with his mother on Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cameron of Peterborough came to visit her sister Winnie Barnum and went out for dinner on Sunday.

Jean Taylor was the guest of her niece for lunch and dinner on Saturday. I had my grandson Bob and his family from North Bay to see me on the weekend and we went to call on George Hewitt's. Dora Dawson had June Wright in on Saturday, also Mr. and Mrs. Ferrier who are old friends from Lancaster. Mrs. Buttery had a niece to visit with her on the 24th. Edna Cowan has been away all weekend. Since attending a wedding on Saturday she has been with members of her family.

We just learned that one of our nurses Judy Toye has a fine baby boy. Congratulations to Judy and her husband Ian.

All till next week!

Taxes could be much worse, suppose we had to pay on what we think we are worth.

Smoking affects more than lungs

by Stephen Dawson, M.D.

Last week I discussed some of the hazardous products contained in cigarette smoke and indicated their impact on the body in general and the lungs in particular. This week I would like to follow up on that column by pinpointing a number of adverse effects that can result from smoking cigarettes.

Cigarette smoking has a direct impact on the body's cardiovascular system. Smoking can lead to coronary-artery disease. If there is a poor oxygen supply to the heart, one of the results of smoking, there is a greater tendendency for abnormal heart rhythms to develop. Also, platelets will become sticky and clog the supply of blood feeding the heart muscle itself. The result is bouts of angina and heart attacks.

There is also the potential for peripheral vascular disease as a result of cigarette smoking. Arteriosclerosis can also occur in the arteries leading to the brain, which can result in a stroke. Hardening of the arteries leading to the kidneys could result in kidney failure.

Hypertension, also referred to as high blood pressure, is aggravated by nicotine, one of the major ingredients in cigarette smoke.

Within the respiratory system, a smoker is more likely to contract a chronic lung disease. Included among these diseases is asthma, emphysema, chronic bronchitis and brochiectasis. All these diseases are a direct result of smoking and include lung irritation, infection and actual destruction of the lung tissue.

We are all familiar with the link between smoking and lung cancer. Other cancers which have been shown to be higher in smokers include cancer of the throat, mouth, esophagus, pancreas and the bladder.

As well, individuals who smoke have a greater risk of contracting a large number of illnesses. Among those which studies have shown to have a higher incidence among smokers are:

- lung infections such as pneumonia and influenza.
- pneumothorax, more commonly known as a collapsed lung.
- laryngitis, the result of the smoke's continuous harmful effect on the voice box.
- tuberculosis.
- peptic ulcer, a result of a poor healing rate when ulcers do appear in the gastro-intestinal system. As mentioned last week, nicotine, one of the main ingredients in cigarette smoke, reduces the production of bicarbonate by the pancreas, a substance needed to nautralize the acid in the stomach. There is also a disturbance to the sphincter muscles in the stomach and esophagus allowing acid normally contained in the stomach to escape into the swallowing tube resulting in ulceration.
- gingivitis a disease of the mouth and teeth. It has been shown that smokers have a greater incidence of gum disease, and teeth which must be extracted. Tar contained in the cigarette smoke also stains the teeth badly.
- blindness, particularly among diabetics. It has been determined that smoking will accelerate blindness by damaging the small blood vessels supplying the eye.

As a final note this week, I should also mention that smoking and pregnancy do not mix. Infants born to smoking mothers have a much lower birth weight. As well, statistics have shown that infants of smoking mothers have a higher incidence of fetal and neonatal deaths.

Next week I'll discuss some ideas on how to kick the smoking habit.

Branch 129 news

by Gerald Irish

I apologize for not submitting an article for last week's paper, but Joan and I spent the long weekend in Windsor. We were invited to attend the 33rd annual reunion of the Royal Canadian Naval- Association.

Doug and Jean Potter, summer residents in Haliburton, staunch supporters of and workers at Branch 129, and our very dear friends, asked us to join them in Windsor and participate in the reunion. We had a wonderful time, meeting old friends and making new ones.

The reunion was well arranged and w ent off very smoothly. Continuous entertainment was provided for the almost 3000 people in attendance. For us, one of the highlights was being able to listen and dance to the memorable music performed by the legendary Ink Spots.

The HMCS Stadacona Band from Halifax also provided music for easy listening and dancing. Altogether, 12 groups performed during our stay there.

Approximately 2000 members participated in the parade on Sunday and in the naval services of remembrance.

After wreath laying ceremonies at the Essex County war memorial, the parade proceeded to Dieppe Park on the Detroit River where Rear Admiral William Landymore threw a floral tribute in the shape on an anchor, into the river to honour those who gave their lives at sea. It was a very moving and emotional service. Very few eyes were dry.

The whole weekend was fantastic and one we will long remember. We hope next year to attend the 34th reunion in Sarnia.

Summer is rapidly approaching and the hectic pace at Branch 129 is picking up to the almost frantic level. May 24, 25, 26 and 27 is the Legional Provincial Conference and elections in Kingston. On May 28 at 7:30 p.m. is the executive meeting of Branch 129.

At this meeting all current and newly-elected executive members are welcome to be there. June 2 will see Joan and me in Lindsay doing a one hour telecast on Cable 10, promoting the Legion Bluegrass Festival. The President's Ball will be held on June 6 and so on it goes, with never a dull moment.

The telecast we will be doing on June 2 at 7 p.m. will feature the music of Mac Wiseman. The show is hosted by Jim Higgins, who was one of the MC's of last year's Bluegrass, and will help Mac Wiseman celebrate his birthday which was on May 23.

The Legion quilt is finished. It is beautiful. You must see it. I would love to win it. Tickets for the quilt draw will go on sale soon. Proceeds from this draw will go the expansion fund.
